MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Research and Reports

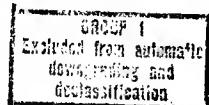

SUBJECT : Status of Policy Support Paper on Soviet ABM Program.

1. This memorandum is in response to your request for a status report on plans for the subject paper.

2. We have in mind a relatively brief Intelligence Memorandum that would make the following main points:

- a. The physical evidence available to us indicates that the USSR has still not begun ABM deployment beyond Moscow, although the design of the basic Moscow system probably dates back to at least 1960, and deployment at Moscow has been underway for about 5 years.
- b. Recent Soviet writings and statements on the ABM question also indicate that the Soviet leaders are not yet committed to further ABM deployment and suggest that the matter is currently a controversial issue in Soviet policy circles.
- c. There are a variety of considerations -- strategic, technical, economic and political -- that might influence the leadership to consider seriously the US initiative on an ABM moratorium and that in any case would be interesting themes to be played during the discussions. Our treatment of the "considerations", particularly the economic, will benefit from work currently in progress for other purposes, including my briefing of ACDA next week.

3. We learned yesterday that negotiations with the Soviets will begin in Moscow on 10 April and that a back-up team that will include

Ray Garthoff is being sent over from Washington. Although our paper will be gratuitous, since no one has asked for or is expecting it, it will have to be out by the middle of next week if it is to be useful. Our effort may abort, but we'll give it a try unless you disagree.
